Sept. 16 -President Taft nded the first day of his faunt with an ddress at the Auditorium here to-night. was the fourth speech of the day.

Frie gave Mr. Taft a welcome that chas seldom seen equalled. Of the 60,000 de in the town certainly 40,000 must ave been on the streets to see the Presithe President's automobile and were scattered plenteously out but no one cared for that. The reight of the mob pulled down the ropes, they knew the young militiamen too well o fear them and the policemen were azed. The throng swept on around be automobile. There were 250 persons at the breakfast. Judge Charles Andrews, former Chief fustice of the Court of Appeals, presided. As wine was of course tabooed at the reakfast he offered a toast to the Presiwater. But their enthusiasm needed no stimulus. They gave Mr. Taft a rattling good cheer to begin his speechmaking for the trip. Mr. Taft grinned broadly he made the confession that for this absolutely unprepared. The grand stand was packed to standing road degree but for the same reason that responsibility falls upon your State of New York. You are rich, you are able to do a lot of things in order that by example you may show what can be done to aid the people by a friendly but an earnest government. Observe, I say, aid the people, and by that I do not mean that the State shall take the place of individual fort, but I mean that the aid which the State gives should be limited to the impetus, the impulse to the assistance and the encouragement and the stimulus of bdividual effort; for I am an individualist first, last and all the time and I am utterly opposed to the theory of socialism that is to transfer the object of individual effort State control and State supervision. the truth and realize that this expense instead of decreasing is bound to increase. I have given much attention to the matter of economy and efficiency in government. While I do not mean to say that the present Department of Agriculture in the work which it is doing might not be made to do the same work for less money by a closer knit organization and greater care in its expenditures, I am confident from looking into the future of the Department and the pressing need for expansion of its work that an increase for expansion of its work that an increase in the appropriations each year for that Department may be and ought to be ex-pected in the interest of the Government. This is where the expenses of the Gov-
